

CPF Launches Micro-Policy Initiative

Shaping a Better Future Together for Britain

Modern, effective policy-making is characterised, among other features, by open and evidence-based idea generation¹ that is innovative, flexible and creative². The Conservative Policy Forum is the setting within the Party that enables Members to participate in this process.

The Conservative Policy Forum:

- develops and advances Conservative ideas and policies within the Party and in Government for the benefit of the whole nation;
- creates regular opportunities for all members, regardless of age or location, to discuss the challenges facing the country and to have real influence on Party policy;
- champions Conservative policies locally and nationally so as to support the election of candidates at every level of government who will implement a Conservative policy agenda.

The regular cycle of national CPF discussion papers and additional local policy CPF meetings offer the space for openness and creativity with respect to long-term macro-policy development. Events reported by the news, however, often present short-term opportunities in areas of micro-policy to which it would also be beneficial to create a similar space. In response to this need, the CPF is launching a micro-policy initiative.

Open Call for Micro-Policy Proposals

Members are invited to use the following one-page template to submit micro-policy suggestions addressing policy challenges of their choice. Proposals should be sent to the CPF Voluntary Director, Hannah David at CPF@conservatives.com

Submissions will be accepted from members only and be reviewed monthly. Only completed submissions from Party members (or CPF Groups and Associations) of no more than one page in length will be considered. Any realistic proposals that are consistent with Conservative values will be submitted to the relevant Government minister for comment.

The best suggestions will receive a Director's Award and be showcased on the CPF website.

Hannah David
Voluntary Director
Conservative Policy Forum

P.S. If you are not already a member of the party, join the Conservatives online and then register your interests with the Policy Forum via the CPF website.

¹ Making Policy Better, 2011, Institute for Government

² Better Policy-Making, 2001, Centre for Management and Policy Studies

CPF Micro-Policy Proposal

Your details

Full name:

Home address:

Membership (Conservative Association):

Proposal

Micro-policy title:

Statement of problem:

(Up to 250 characters)

Micro-policy proposal:

(Up to 500 characters)

Objectives:

(Up to 250 characters)

Expected long-term impact:

(Up to 250 characters)

Potential unintended consequences:

(Up to 250 characters)

Supporting evidence or experience of others:

(Up to 250 characters)

Anticipated cost:

(Up to 50 characters)

Accountability for implementation:

(Up to 250 characters)

Mechanism for evaluation:

(Up to 250 characters)

Government department responsible:

(Up to 50 characters)

Micro-policy proposals will only be accepted from Members of the Conservative Party or from CPF Groups and Conservative Associations. Only proposals with all sections completed and limited to a single page will be considered for review. Members submitting a policy are declaring that the proposal (i) is all their own work and does not represent the work of others as being original, and (ii) has not previously been submitted to the CPF or elsewhere. Proposals should be sent to the CPF Voluntary Director at CPF@conservatives.com